Jon.

No - we had a conference call with WVDHHR and EPA that included EPA statisticians. The purpose of the call was to lend the state a hand in developing a relevant sampling approach for house hold sampling. The call discussed several ideas. The state has not decided at this point the approach that they will implement.

Is this true -- are we actually 'sending' people or are we assigning people?

Hey Terri -

I think the latest update I saw was that we were sending statisticians down to WV to support developing a methodology to test in people's homes. Is that right? Would it be possible to develop a few sentences about who's going and what they're doing?

Thanks so much,
Caroline
